Made to Order

At Marathon, we are committed to making the custom-design experience as pleasurable for our valued clients as possible—from your first meeting with our professional staff, to final delivery of your brand-new, custom-designed coach. Whether you decide to come in and spend a day perusing design options, or provide our designers with an idea you already have, you can be as hands-on during the design phase as you choose. Before the project begins, our engineering manager and an interior designer contact you to introduce themselves and get a feel for your vision. Throughout the entire process, they are always readily available to discuss the project with you and provide updates.

Easy:

Our experienced professionals guide you step-by-step through the process of creating your dream coach.

Design the floorplan yourself or browse our more than two dozen proven show-coach layouts to get ideas. Beginning with the engineering department, you'll work with a skilled project engineer, who translates your ideas to a computer-aided (CAD) software program to create a coach to your exact specifications.

Next, you'll meet with a professional interior designer who will help you come up with a design scheme, choosing everything from the upholstery fabric and valances, to the countertops, flooring, and fixtures. Or, simply give an overall vision to your designer, who will present you with a design package based on your tastes.

Convenient:

Marathon's engineering, interior design, and production departments are located in-house to accommodate your needs and provide personalized attention.

Finally, you will meet with Marathon's experienced, in-house paint designer, who will work with you one-on-one to create a unique exterior paint concept for your dream coach. Options include anything from a simple design to a mural. Marathon's paint department offers full-service accommodations and an array of special effects from which to choose, including marbles, textures, shadows, and even pearlescent paints that capture light when sprayed over certain colors. Every Marathon exterior paint scheme is a custom piece of artwork.

From order to delivery, your custom "dream" coach will be exactly how you designed it when you take delivery in as little as six months.

Experience:

Because Marathon Coach has designed and built more than 1,100 quality, custom-designed bus conversions, you are in good hands. The most experienced designers and craftspeople in the industry invest their time, integrity, and pride into building your luxury Marathon coach.
